

MARKS OF DISTINCTION

Luxury home builder PCM offers something unique to its Oakville clientele: inspired custom homes that are anything but “builder basic.”

DRESSED TO IMPRESS:

Taking his cue from Old Hollywood mansions of the 1920's and 30's, architect Michael Pettes collaborated with PCM on this gracious residence. They used a stone facade, a strong sense of symmetry and oversized pillars to give visitors an immediate impression of grandeur and elegance, before they even step indoors.

MODERN FARMHOUSE: The exterior of this home nods to European farmhouse influences. Multiple dormer peaks and an interesting mix of materials — including stone, painted stucco and barn board detailing — are unexpected for a home in Oakville, offering a hint that there are some surprises inside.

EVERYDAY RETREAT: It's immediately obvious that this house has all the casual comfort of a weekend getaway. The covered porch invites outdoor lounging and specially-sourced cedar shakes lend to the relaxed look.
